govinda dāmodara mādhaveti*

Before the assembled Kurus and pandavas, when Duḥśāsana caught her hair and clothing, Kṛṣṇā (Draupadī), having no other Lord, cried out, " Govinda, Dāmodara, Mādhava!"

(2)

*śrī kṛṣṇa viṣṇo madhu-kaiṭabhāre

govinda dāmodara mādhaveti*

O Lord Kṛṣṇa, Viṣṇu, enemy of the Madhu and Kaiṭabha demons; O Supreme Personality of Godhead, enemy of Mura, merciful upon the devotees; O Keśava, Lord of the worlds, Govinda, Dāmodara, Mādhava, please deliver me.

(3)

*vikretukāmā kila gopa-kanya murāri-pādārpita-citta-vṛttiḥ dadhyādikām mohavaśād avocad
govinda dāmodara mādhaveti*

Though desiring to sell milk, dahi, butter, etc., the mind of a young gopī was so absorbed in the lotus feet of Kṛṣṇa that instead of calling out "Milk for sale," she bewilderedly said, "Govinda!", Dāmodara!", and "Mādhava!"

(4)

ulūkhale sambhṛta-tandulānīś ca saṅghaṭtayantyo musalaiḥ pramugdhāḥ

*gāyanti gopyo janitānurāgā
govinda dāmodara mādhaveti*

Their grinding-mortars full of grains, the gopīs minds are overcome as they thresh with their pestles, singing "Govinda, Dāmodara, Mādhava!"

(5)

*kācit karāmbhoj a-puṭe niṣaṇṇam

A lotus-eyed girl instructed the red-beaked pet parrot that was seated in the cup of her lotus hand; she said, "Govinda, Dāmodara, Mādhava . . ."

*grhe grhe gopa-vadhū-samūhah prati-kṣaṇam piñjara-sārikānām

In each and every house, a bevy of gopa-women is engaged in making the caged parrots constantly utter with broken words, "Govinda," "Dāmodara," and Mādhava."

With the little boy lying in the swing, all of the gopīs used to expertly sing compositions set to musical notes and rhythm; they went, "Govinda, Dāmodara, Mādhava," while putting Him to rest.

*rāmānujaṁ vīkṣaṇa-keli-lolam gopi gr̥hītvā nava-nīta-golam

govinda dāmodara mādhaveti*

The younger brother of Balarāma, playing mischieviously, was dodging about her with restless eyes. Taking a ball of fresh butter to lure Him over, a gopī called Him: "O Govinda, Dāmodara, Mādhava . . ."

(9)

*vicitra-varṇābharaṇābhiraṁe-
-bhidhehi vaktrāmbuja-rājahaṁse sadā madiye rasane 'gra-range
govinda dāmodara mādhaveti*

O my tongue, since my mouth has become like a lotus by dint of the presence there of these eloquent, ornamental, delightful syllables, you are like the swan that plays there. As your foremost pleasure, always articulate the names, "Govinda," "Dāmodara," and "Mādhava."

(10)

*aṅkādhirūḍhaṁ śiśu-gopa-gūḍham stanam dhayantam kamalaika-kāntam sambodhayām āsa mudā yaśodā
govinda dāmodara mādhaveti*

The one and only Lord of Laksmīdevī, as an inconspicuous little cowherd baby, was seated in the lap of mother Yaśodā, drinking her breast-milk. Merged in bliss, she addressed Him as "Govinda," "Dāmodara," and "Mādhava."

(11)

*krīḍantam antar-vrajam ātmanam svam samam vayasyaiḥ paśu-pāla-bālaiḥ

In Vraja-dhāma, Kṛṣṇa was playing with His playmates, the boys of His age who protected the animals. With great love, mother Yaśodā called out to her own son, "O Govinda, Dāmodara, Mādhava!"

(12)

*yaśodayā gāḍham ulūkhalena

gopī gr̄hitvā navanīta-golam āmardayat pāni-talena netre
govinda dāmodara mādhaveti*

In His own courtyard, Kṛṣṇa was carelessly playing with a bracelet. So the gopī took a ball of butter to Him, and shutting His eyes with her palm, she distracted Him, "O Govinda, Dāmodara, Mādhava . . .(Guess what I have for you!)"

(14)

*gr̄he gr̄he gopa-vadhū-kadambāḥ

In house after house, groups of cowherd ladies gather on various occasions, and together they always chant the transcendental names of Kṛṣṇa--"Govinda, Dāmodara, and Mādhava."

(15)

His face is pleasing, and the flute at His lips is filled with Divine sound. Amidst the cows, gopas, and gopīs, He stands at the base of a coral tree. Govinda, Dāmodara, Mādhava!

*jagdho 'tha datto navanīta-piṇḍo gr̥he yaśodā vicikitsayantī uvāca satyam vada he murāre
govinda dāmodara mādhaveti*

Having churned and then set aside a fresh lump of butter in the house, mother Yaśodā was now suspicious--it had been eaten. She said, "Hey--Murāri! Govinda, Dāmodara, Mādhava, now tell me the truth . . ."

(18)

*abhyarcyā geham yuvatiḥ pravṛddha-

govinda dāmodara mādhaveti*

Having finished worship at home, a young gopī, (like) a strong current of love for Kṛṣṇa, churned the butter, and then joins together with all the gopīs and their friends and they sing, "Govinda, Dāmodara, Mādhava!"

(19)

govinda dāmodara mādhaveti*

(Without having even bathed or eaten,) Kṛṣṇa was absorbed in play. Overwhelmed with affection, mother Yaśodā, who thought only of her son's welfare, called out, "Govinda, Dāmodara, Mādhava! (Come, take your bath and eat something.)"

*sukhamī śayānam nilaye ca viṣṇum

Devaṛṣi Nārada and other Munis are always surrendered to Lord Viṣṇu, who rests upon His couch. They always chant the names of "Govinda," "Dāmodara," and "Mādhava," and thus they attain spiritual forms similar to His.

With long, matted hair the color of coral, and bodies purified by eating only leaves, water, and air, the sages sit beneath the trees and chant, "Govinda," "Dāmodara," and "Mādhava."

*evam bruvāṇā virahāturā bhṛśāṁ vraja-striyah kṛṣṇa-viṣikta-mānasāḥ

"After speaking these words, the ladies of Vraja, who were so attached to Kṛṣṇa, felt extremely agitated by their imminent separation from Him. They forgot all worldly shame and loudly cried out,'O Govinda! O Dāmodara! O Mādhava!'" n.b.--(This verse is identical with Śrīmad Bhāgavatam, 10. 39.31; it describes the gopīs' reaction to Akrūra's taking Kṛṣṇa and Balarāma away from Vṛndāvana. The above translation is that of H.H. Hṛdayānanda Gosvāmī.)
